Christmas Activity

MEAT ACTIVITY AT THE PENDLETON WOOLEN MILLS.

The near approach of Christmas is evident if one will but go up to the woolen mills. There everything is activity and activity. Every machine in the mill is being worked to its full capacity to fill the rush orders that are coming in.

On one order alone from a firm in New Mexico, it will require 100 robes.

The money spent in advertising the woolen mills is just beginning to return and the Christmas trade for this year will be the largest in the history of the institution.

The requests for catalogues and information regarding these famous robes come from all over the world, and it is a common occurrence to have to call an express wagon to take the number of these robes being ordered on individual orders alone.

These robes are so popular that even for the most popular robes there are orders where the goods are not found in the local stores, and when these are added to the robes being distributed over the country, Pendleton woolen mills see what an interest has been created in the products of the mills.

The garments have not been shown in the trade at large, yet the demand for the new line has far exceeded the capacity of the machines now in operation.

At the present time more orders for these garments are on file than can possibly be turned out before Christmas.

Phillips, treasurer of the Root Wool Growers Association, publishers of the Dry Goods Economist, The Dry Goods Reporter, The Pacific Merchant, called at the mills one day this week and upon seeing the robes, Lounging Jackets and Toboggans now being manufactured, expressed a greater interest in these robes than even the Indian robes he had seen, and said if they were placed before the merchants next year he would think the present mill would be able to turn out even cloth enough for the garments alone.

People making up Christmas lists for their friends should include something from our home town and thus give a way to advertise not only our goods as well.

Woolen has her beer; Grand Rapids has her furniture, and Pendleton has her robes and blankets.

Received the finest and largest lot of stoneware ever sent to Pendleton. We will sell high grade as low as others sell low grade. Every jar guaranteed.

THE STATE'S FARM

MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

Oregon Experimental Farm at Union Sends Fine Collection of Grains, Grasses and Other Products to the Oregon Information Bureau—Alfalfa, Red Clover, Wheat, Oats, Barley and Vegetables of Wonderful Growth Included in the Display.

What is said to be the most remarkable exhibit of grasses and grains ever seen in a single collection in Oregon, was placed on exhibition yesterday in the rooms of the Oregon Information Bureau at the Union depot. There are 22 varieties of oats, wheat and barley, and 25 varieties of grasses including the alfalfas, says the Oregon Daily Journal. The exhibit was grown at the Union experiment station in Union county, and was prepared by Prof. George Gammie, in charge of the station, and his assistant, Prof. Withycombe, Jr.

There are bunches of alfalfa over five feet high heavily topped and richly scented. Bunches of sweet clover are four feet high and canary seed grass of two month's growth, three feet high. The flax specimens are of the finest and most prolific quality. Bunches of red clover are three and a half feet high and asparagus three feet high. Birdsfoot clover and native clover specimens of bromus grasses that are good for stock food, and the work of the station is bringing them out and showing the farmers of Oregon what can be done with the proper seed and cultivation in Oregon soil.

The farmer not only of the East, but of the state of Oregon will find a revelation when he inspects these exhibits. The sample bunches of grain are wonderful. The wheats include Webb's Challenge, Carter's Flowerball, Stenwell's spring wheat, Carter's Queen, Carter's winter and others. The straw is from three to four feet high and the grain is heavy and closely bunched in the heads, both beardless and bearded.

The oats samples are even longer and heavier straw and bear heavily. One variety, which the grower has named "Mortgage Lifter," stands fully four and a half feet high. Other varieties of oats are the Clydesdale, Lincoln, New Zealand and Black Tartarian. The barley specimens include Japanese malting, Mooseberry, Chevalier and others.

The Grand Ronde valley has sent in an exhibit of beets, carrots, turnips and squash. This valley in the year now closing produced 25,000 acres of sugar beets, averaging eight tons to the acre, and selling in the market at $5 per ton. The cost of producing an acre is $22.50. The output last year was 11,000 tons, and this year it increased to 20,700 tons. Sugar beets in this valley average 14 per cent saccharine matter for the whole crop. In the exhibit is a turnip that weighs 16 pounds, and a garden beet weighing 12 pounds. The turnip was grown in the garden of J. Miller, of Glencoe. The exhibit includes white voles, carrots that produce at the rate of 29 1-2 tons to the acre, and are excellent cow feed.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

Decided Firmness Shown and Foreign Advances Are All Strong.

The Commercial Bulletin, concerning the wool market, says: The week has been free from exciting features. A fair amount of business was closed previous to the holiday, including sizable transactions in Idaho, Utah and Wyoming fine, fine medium and medium. For fine and fine medium the secured basis has been as high as 65c, and half blood sold to cost 60c.

The market is very firm and foreign advances are strong. London showing a good advance all around. Tight money, heavy importations, and possible tariff agitation are talked about as restraining influences.

The shipments of wool from Boston to date from December 31, 1903, according to the same authority, are 220,428,447 lbs., against 212,344,039 lbs at the same time last year. The receipts to date are 291,873,437 lbs, against 264,437,398 lbs for the same period last year.

Events in Crook County.

The county court awarded the contract for building the bridge across Willow creek, near this city, to Elkins & Harbin of Prineville. The price is $485, the bridge to be completed by January 1, 1905.

Father Hickey says that the Catholic denomination will commence building a church in this city next May. He feels that Madras is destined to be the coming town of Central Oregon and his people propose to get in on the ground floor.

As winter and cold weather is approaching coyotes are getting thick. Chris Harry saw eight in one bunch. W. Terrill saw 11. H. Cochlin and Timothy Brownhill saw 12 romping and playing together, and other people bring in reports of a similar nature. Some think that the coyotes band together for the purpose of hunting jackrabbits. There may be some reason in this, as it is said the jackrabbits are becoming more scarce.—Madras Pioneer.

Jewelers from many Western cities have sent orders for Lewis and Clark souvenir gold dollars to be used as Christmas gifts. The coins are being mounted and used as tie and scarf pins, watch chains, brooches, and in many other ways.

The national Association of State Dairy and Food Departments, consisting of about 300 delegates, will hold its next annual convention at Portland in June, during the Lewis and Clark centennial.
